THOUGHT EARTH WAS ERUPTING

M. J. Ogden and Wife Had a Harrow Experience While Out Camping.

NARROW ESCAPE FROM DEATH

Drunken Lads Fired a Shot Gun and Came Near Laying the Couple Low.

Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Ogden of East Eighth street, had a frightful experience Monday afternoon which they will not forget. The couple have been camping near the Kennedy bridge, northeast of this city and when the big storm came up Monday they hustled off for protection under the covered bridge. It was just when the storm had subsided and they were preparing to seek their tent again when a loud report was heard, they saw a flash of fire and water and mud from the river splashed upon them, seemingly coming from a volcanic eruption of some sort.

This fear proved to be unfounded but on investigation they found that they had a very narrow escape from serious injury or maybe death. They found a trio of young men in a half drunken condition has sought shelter in the bridge and in a spirit of bravado—or maybe more just to be doing something—had placed a double-barreled shot gun in a hole in the floor of the bridge and fired at the water below. Of course, the inebriate youths did not know anyone was below but that would not have saved the lives of the couple if they had been in the range of the discharged weapon.

GOLD THIEF WILL HAVE A HEARING

A. S. Johnson, Who Boldly Operated in This Part of Indiana, Faces Tribunal Tomorrow.

LOCAL WOMAN A WITNESS

A. S. Johnson, the man caught at Shelbyville Sunday morning and thought to be the thief that pilfered a number of dental offices in this part of Indiana, Dr. F. W. Sparks of this city being a victim, will be given a preliminary hearing tomorrow morning. Mrs. George Hatfield, the Main Street House landlady, who positively identified Johnson as the man who was here when the Sparks office was entered and robbed, will likely be one of the principal witnesses against him. Neither Mrs. Hatfield or Dr. Sparks have been summoned for the preliminary.

New York street cars killed 444 persons in 1908 and injured 35,060 others.

"PANIC" HAIR CUT IS THE VERY LATEST.

"Panic" hair cut, a new style in hair dressing, has made its appearance. The hair cut consists of a close clipper cut, afterward shaving a strip about an inch wide from the middle of the forehead to the back of the neck. The peculiar name given it arose from the effect produced when one wearing this style of head dress lifts his hat.

The Philosophy of A Wise and Rich Man Seventy Years Young

In view of much recent discussion among the citizens of Rushville, it might be well and timely to publish a few excerpts of an interview with John D. Rockefeller, given out last Thursday on his seventieth birthday. Rockefeller is a rich man and withal a wise man. His wisdom and philosophy is found in the following: "Never felt better in my life."

"I never talk about the termination of life. I am too busy trying to be useful while I live."

"The best way to prepare for the end of life is to live for others, and that is what I am trying to do."

"Every one should remember that there is something worth while beside mere money-getting."

"Men should occupy their minds with other things than business, for these other things are those which give a keen relish to life. While a man is in business he should look ahead to what is to be the ultimate result of all his toil and all his success."

"Business men today are living too rapidly. They would be in better health and live longer if they followed my example."

"People worry too much. Everybody should try to be happy under all the changing conditions of life."

JONES SAYS HE FEARED HIS WIFE

Threatened to Cut the Heart Out of New Castle's Postmaster, He Says.

HAD MUCH "TIMPERAMENT"

New Castle, Ind., July 13.—Late this afternoon Judge Jackson in the circuit court, granted a divorce to James H. Jones, postmaster of New Castle.

Mr. Jones testified that his wife on many occasions became hysterical and that on one occasion she had threatened to "cut his heart out" with a butcher knife, and that he was fearful of her after that.

Mrs. Jones was in the city, but was not present in court, being represented by her attorney and her stepfather, Thomas M. Randle.

It was not made public what sum of money it was agreed upon should be paid Mrs. Jones.

LADY SMOKING VILE CIGARETTE

Attracted Crowd About the Smoking Compartment of Pullman Car at C. H. & D.

BECOMES A COMMON CUSTOM

Elite of Effete East Now Smoke—Will Rushville Ladies do the Same?

There was a grin on many faces, a look of disgust on others and the remainder of the little coterie carried perplexed countenances. It was at the C. H. & D. passenger depot last evening when the through train from Chicago stopped for a few minutes. The cause of all these various emotions being displayed on the faces that peered into the rear coach on the train was the fact that a woman was in the smoking compartment of the Pullman nonchalantly smoking away on a cigarette. Why, the very idea! thought some of them. Others naturally drew their own conclusions regarding the moral standard of the woman. She was a beautiful piece of creation; attired as lavish as one traveling would be allowed to dress without violating conventionalities. But she was as unconcerned about it as a country merchant appears when a traveling man is crying his wares to him.

Calm your feeling of consternation, dear brothers and sisters, for unless the vogue takes a sidestep we will all see many upon many of women smoking in this country within the next few years, not only on railroad trains, but everywhere. Cigarette smoking has taken a firm grip on the fashionable women of the East, and like everything else they do, the West sooner or later falls in and emulates.

Nearly all the swell hotels and restaurants already have furnished ladies smoking rooms and it is but a matter of time until the department stores and many other places will have arranged a place for the dear things. And they are not the bad sort, either. Dissipate that idea at once, for members of the best families now regard it as smart and quite the thing. Of course, we, not of the elite East cannot "see" this new vogue only through the glass of horrors. To us it is something rude and very unladylike—but wait. Perhaps it will not be over two years at the most until the ladies' card clubs and fashionable gatherings in Rushville will not be complete without a few pulls at a King's size Pall Mall. It is to be hoped that they do not go any further and introduce them into pastor's aid society meetings and the like.

Most of us can remember seeing women of the generation now fast passing out tugging away at an old pipe. In their heyday it was quite the thing to smoke; and many of them were grandmothers of the finest generation of people that ever trod this old earth. It was the custom and no one ever associated the habit—although it might be considered vulgar—with an evil or vicious mind or condition of loose morals.

But cigarette smoking among ladies—my, oh me! Bet you are raising your hands in holy horror in contemplation of such a thing. But listen (first be it understood that we are not defending the movement or vogue, but rather pointing out argument that will likely be submitted later on by those indulging)—How about the dress of the woman of today? Isn't it simply audacious, to say the least? And when boiled down for a finer analysis, now, honor bright, isn't it, for the most part, just vulgar. Think of the armour corsets, the band worn about the knees, the low neck (decolette) gown fashioned for summer wear in the day time, the hipless hips and the padded other parts. What do you think about all of that? Still, they are good women and good girls who wear them.

The cigarette smoking craze came from the old world. The very best people of Russia (ladies of the court) French, Spanish and Turkish women have long been addicted to the habit. A few years ago the English women took it up and it was at once considered clever and smart and not in violation of their society canons. Two years ago it came to New York City—and yesterday we saw it in Rushville.

Soon it will be the eternal question here, not that it is a pleasant day, but—
"Have you the makin's, sister?"

BEN SPARKS TAKES SUDDEN DEPARTURE

Popular Young Man Left For California Without Apprising Most Intimate Friends.

TAKES UP AUTOMOBILE WORK

Ben Sparks a popular young man of this city, left suddenly last night for California, where he intends to reside permanently. He did not even apprise his most intimate friends of his intentions, but jumped on the train and was on his way before few knew about it.

Young Sparks graduated from the high school last spring and had intended up until a very recent date to seek a higher education in one of the colleges or universities of the State next year. He was one of the most popular young men in the city and is also said to be the best athlete ever graduated from the local high school.

He has had much experience in automobile work and intends to enter that line of work in the far West. He secured recommendations and addresses of several former Rushville residents now living in California before leaving last night.

CASE GOES TO THE SUPREME COURT

Indianapolis Legal Talent Has Been Secured to Assist in the Fight.

MUCH MONEY WILL BE SPENT

The Main street paving case, which was heard by Special Judge Hanna at a special session of the circuit court Monday, when an adverse decision was handed down against the petitioners, will now go to the Supreme court. Megee & Kiplinger have taken the steps for an appeal to the higher court. The local firm has engaged some of the best legal talent in the State to assist on the case.

One of the remonstrators declared last night that he would spend one thousand dollars in fighting the case, and says he has the money, too. The case has caused no end of discussion.

ESTELLA OWEN WANTS DIVORCE

Says Her Husband Threw Her Down on the Floor and Choked Her.

SUIT COMES AS A SURPRISE

To Many Acquaintances of Prominent Orange Township Family—Wants Alimony.

A divorce suit involving a prominent Orange township family was filed today in the Rush circuit court. Estella Owens asks for a divorce from her husband, Ray Owens, wants the custody of their thirteen-year-old boy and fifteen hundred dollars alimony. The suit comes as a surprise to many of their acquaintances over the county, but not to their intimate friends and neighbors, as it has been generally known in the locale where they reside that they were incompatible and have had trouble a number of times covering a period of five years or more.

In the complaint the wife alleges that her husband treated her with disrespect, cursed and abused her, and was cruel and inhuman. She says that he threw her down on the floor once and choked her. The husband will be given an opportunity at the trial to either deny or admit the charges against him. The couple has been married about fifteen years.

Ray Owen, the defendant in the suit, is a brother of Charles Owen, the trustee of Orange township.

BENDER SAYS THE STORY WAS WRONG

Local Tailor, Principal in Divorce Proceedings, Declares New Castle Paper in Error.

WAS NOT CRUEL TO HIS WIFE

Frank Bender, the tailor employed at Bliss & Cowing's, whose wife was granted a divorce Monday in the Henry county circuit court, says the New Castle newspaper was in error in saying he was cruel to his wife. Bender says they never had any trouble up until the time of their separation and that his wife testified on the stand that he had never mistreated her when they were living together. He says she sued for divorce on the grounds of desertion and asked one thousand dollars alimony.

SCHOOL'S GOOD ANGEL

J. W. Harriman Aids Old "Prep" Institution With $150,000.

SOUGHT TO HIDE HIS GIFTS.

New Yorker Revealed as Mysterious Donor to the Cheshire School in Connecticut—J. P. Morgan Was Trained There—His Pranks Recalled. Mr. Harriman's Peculiar Experience.

Many a millionaire has remembered his college alma mater in substantial endowments, but it remained for Joseph W. Harriman of New York city to remember his "prep" school with several thousands.

For months it has been a mystery where Cheshire school, the Episcopal academy of Connecticut, was receiving the large amounts expended on new buildings and in renovation of structures standing since its foundation in 1794—an amount upward of $150,000.

It was learned the other day that the entire sum was from Mr. Harriman, who entered the school at the age of nine and left in 1880. A reporter taxed him with it at his office.

"I guess I'll have to admit that I am the 'angel,'" he said, "although I hoped to keep in the background. I know how much I owe to the training

I had in that dear old fashioned 'prep' when my father took me there years ago, a motherless 'kiddle.'

A natural next question was why Mr. Harriman had taken the unusual course of looking after the welfare of his preparatory school instead of his college.

"I found they were drifting because they lacked funds and equipment," said Mr. Harriman, who is a nephew of Edward H. Harriman. "It seemed to me that a school that prepared for college men like J. Pierpont Morgan, General Alexander Perry, the late General Joe Wheeler, James B. Dill, Bishop Lines, Ernest Flagg, Dr. Holbrook Curtiss, Dr. William G. Vibbert, Clinton Peters and C. La Rue Munson should not be permitted to go to decay. I never gave any money that brought more satisfaction than seeing the old school re-established, and I guess they know I propose to see the thing through."

"Joe" Harriman, as he is known among the Cheshire alumni, just as Mr. Morgan is known as "Ponty," had a peculiar experience at the school. He was taken in after his mother's death at an age several years below the minimum. There was one other "baby" there—Clinton Peters, the artist, who has since been honored by the academy in Paris and who has a studio in New York.

The older boys would not play with them, and Peters and Harriman had to make their own amusement. They became chums, only to drift apart when Peters was sent abroad to study. They discovered each other a few years ago, and out of the reunion came a renewed interest in the old school.

They went to Cheshire, and Mr. Harriman's decision to rehabilitate the institution was made on the spot. A few days ago they returned to celebrate the one hundred and fifteenth commencement of the institution. There were 300 of the old boys in attendance.

The most notable event was the return of the old bell which had served in a Spanish mission and had been seized in Connecticut from a Spanish vessel. The school got a new bell in 1880 when Trinity college, at Hartford, was being improved, and the old bell was given to a church at Branford, Conn. Thence it went to another church at Southington. Herbert D. Lloyd, treasurer of the school, traced the bell, and William C. Demerest of the class of '75 provided the funds for its recovery.

A number of stories about Mr. Morgan's schooldays were retold at the commencement. He was apt in his studies, but he had a knack of making original trouble for head masters and their assistants. One night Morgan started a big round stove rolling down a stairway a tutor was mounting. No one "squealed," and as a result the whole school was put "on punishment."—New York American.

Too True!

There is a rare bit of pathos in the letter written by the late Dr. Edward Everett Hale to the Tyngsboro, (Mass.) centennial committee in the latter part of March regretting his inability to attend the celebration. He wrote, "I have another engagement, which I cannot cancel for the end of June."

LATER DETAILS OF SAYLER MURDER

Relatives of Dead Man's Wife Held as Accessories.

FOUR ARE NOW IN JAIL

Dr. Miller, Who Shot the Vice President of the Bank of Crescent City, Ill., Is Held as the Principal, and the Murdered Man's Wife and Her Father and Brother Are Detained as Accessories—Brother of the Slain Man Reported to Have Restrained Rising Mob Feeling.

Watseka, Ill., July 14.—Excitement still prevails in this section over the killing of J. B. Sayler, vice president of the First National bank of Crescent City, by Dr. W. R. Miller, a well-known physician of the same town. On the day of the tragedy, when Mr. Sayler was absent from home, it is alleged that Mrs. Sayler, Dr. Miller, John Grunder, father of Mrs. Sayler and a resident of Oklahoma, who was visiting his daughter, and Ira Grunder, a brother of Mrs. Sayler, had been drinking.

This statement was made by Ira Grunder, who has given himself up to the sheriff. Grunder said that he had been overcome by the effect of the drink and was sound asleep when the shooting began. So deep was his slumber, he declared, that even the shots and ensuing confusion did not awaken him.

Dr. Miller, both Grunders and Mrs. Sayler are in jail. No move to obtain bail has been made so far. Peter Wease, brother-in-law of Mrs. Sayler, has arrived to assist the latter in her trouble.

Miller is held on a charge of murder, the other as accessories. William Sayler, a brother of the dead man, is credited with quieting the crowd at Crescent City which talked of wreaking mob vengeance on Dr. Miller and Mrs. Sayler. He is said to have visited the leaders with pacific counsel and persuaded them to let the law take its course. The funeral of Mr. Sayler was held at Crescent City this afternoon.

That Sayler remained passive for the sake of his seventeen-year-old daughter Goldie, while talk of the alleged intimacy of his wife and Dr. Miller was rife, is asserted by the decedent's closest friends. On this theory alone are they able to account for the country banker's silence during the last two years, during which it is said that Dr. Miller was with growing frequency, been Mrs. Sayler's guest at her home and her companion on long drives, rambles and hunting expeditions.

Two years ago Mr. Sayler sent his daughter to the neighboring town of Onarga to attend a seminary, in order, it is now said, that she might not be a witness to the domestic tangle.

CHARGED WITH FORGERY

Tipton Boy Accused of Using Others' Names on Checks.

Tipton, Ind., July 14.—It is alleged that Lester Mann, aged 18, forged checks to the amount of $28, visited Indianapolis and took in the sights Sunday. He found the game so profitable that he tried the trick over again, it is said, and is also alleged to have stolen a watch and chain from Mrs. J. Adair. He was leaving for Kokomo to visit a circus when apprehended. The lad will have his trial on the charges of forgery and larceny Friday. He was recently paroled from the reform school at Plainfield, to which place he had been sent for robbing the Lake Erie & Western depot at Hillsburg. The boy had been employed at the roundhouse in this city.

To Confer With the President.

Indianapolis, July 14.—Senator Albert J. Beveridge unexpectedly left for Washington at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon in response to an important telegram. Washington dispatches yesterday said that Senator Beveridge would meet President Taft this afternoon. It was the understanding yesterday that Senator Beveridge was going back to Washington to suggest reductions in the tariff bill which he felt should be made.

Lightning Killed Child in Home.

Noblesville, Ind., July 14.—Rachael McDonald, aged twelve, daughter of Frank McDonald, was instantly killed by lightning. The little girl was playing near a large fireplace when the lightning struck the house, came down the chimney and, leaping a distance of ten feet, struck the girl on the head. She fell over and died before assistance could reach her.

A Question of Jurisdiction.

Indianapolis, July 14.—Attorney General Bingham has submitted an opinion to H. E. Barnard, state pure food and drug commissioner, in which he holds that the state of Indiana has the right to proceed against sources of pollution in Lake Michigan, from which some of the cities and towns along the Indiana shore line derive their water supply.

BLOCKADED

Every Household in Rushville Should Know how to resist it.

The back aches because the kidneys are blocked.

Help the kidneys with their work. The back will ache no more.

Lots of proof that Doan's Kidney Pills do this.

It's the best proof, for it comes from Rushville.

L. B. Downey, 702 North Sexton street, Rushville, Ind., says: "I can strongly recommend Doan's Kidney Pills from my own experience with them. My back was very lame and any quick movement was followed by sharp twinges through my loins. Recently I procured Doan's Kidney Pills from F. B. Johnson & Co.'s drug store and through their use I was relieved."

GOVERNOR'S ADVICE

Reformatory Heating Plant Contract Ought to Be Revoked, He Says.

Indianapolis, July 14.—A letter has been written by Gov. Marshall to the board of trustees of the reformatory at Jeffersonville recommending that the board revoke the contract entered into with the Indiana Engineering company for the new heating plant at the institution. The governor holds that it is necessary under the law for the board to advertise for bids and to let the contract only in open competition by bidders. It was this contract that called forth the investigation into the conduct of affairs at the reformatory.

Princeton, Ill., July 14.—Fred L. Cole, a justice of the peace, shot and killed himself here. He had suffered from physical infirmities from childhood. He left a note which simply said: "No one cares for Fred."

Combat Fiercely Waged.

Teheran, July 14.—The Nationalists attacked the Cossacks in the barracks and artillery square for two hours last evening without succeeding in capturing the positions. The combat was fiercely waged, the Cossacks using shrapnel. A body of the shah's troops is coming from Shahabad by forced marches to the assistance of the Royalists.

Additional Arrests Expected.

Wabash, Ind., July 14.—George Porter, aged nineteen, was placed under arrest on the charge of passing a forged check and is now in jail. In his arrest it is alleged by the police a conspiracy to utter forged checks is uncovered and the officers expect to make additional arrests of those they believe members of a gang.

PERSIANS WANT A CONSTITUTION

The Orient Awakening to a Sense of Freedom.

NATIONALISTS TAKE TEHERAN

Just as the People of Turkey Recently

Arose Against Autocratic Ruler, So

the Persians Are Now Seeking to

Shake the Rule of the Shah—The

Nationalists Have Entered the Capital of Persia With a Force Which Promises to Take Over the City.

Teheran, Persia, July 14.—Strong forces of the Constitutionalists are now in possession of the greater part of the city, which they entered without encountering any organized resistance.

The strictest discipline is being maintained by the Nationalists, who are placing guards at the gates and other points as the Royalists are disarmed. The Nationalists' leader in a note to the Russian and British legations guarantees security of life and property to foreigners, adding that nothing is demanded from the shah but a real constitution. Sipahdar already has summoned the members of the Mejliss to witness the opening of parliament.

While Sardarasad and Sipahdar, the leaders in the movement, concentrated the attention of the Royalists by demonstrations to the west, a strong body of Nationalists and Bakhtiars made their way unnoticed around to the north, from which point the capture of the capital was not difficult. The guards at the northern gates were disarmed and the invaders marched in, the foreign section leaders taking up their quarters in the old Mejliss building. This gives the Nationalists command of the city with the exception of the artillery square and the drill ground adjoining.

The Royalists are badly situated to make further resistance, and the Cossacks, under command of Russian officers, remain outside the city, entirely cut off from their comrades in the artillery square.

The invaders lost only one man while making their entry into the city. The loss to the Royalists is unknown, but cannot be heavy, as the Cossacks were the only defenders to offer resistance. They are keeping up a desultory fire and occasionally are making use of their artillery. There is much ill feeling against the Russians, and the Nationalists are endeavoring to prevent any incident that might justify a Russian force entering the city.

LAWYERS WRANGLE IN THE GINGLES CASE

Attorneys O'Donnell and Short Nearly Come to Blows.

Chicago, July 14.—The closing hours of the state's case against Ella Gingles, the young Irish lace-maker, were marked by wrangling of lawyers and further testimony impeaching Ella's story of her torture in the Wellington hotel Feb. 17.

An alibi was furnished for Miss Agnes May Barrette, proprietor of a lace store in the Wellington hotel, who is accused by Miss Gingles of being the moving spirit in the plot to lead her into "white slavery," and of abusing and cutting her in the bathroom scene. Miss Mary Hale, owner of a hair-dressing parlor, told of meeting Miss Barrette the evening of Feb. 16, and of attending the theater with her. Later, she said, they went to Miss Barrette's room and went to bed. This was the time the Gingles girl testified she was being mistreated by Miss Barrette and her companions. In a debate over the introduction of a bit of evidence, Attorney O'Donnell for the defense and Attorney Short for the state, nearly came to blows, and the judge interfered with difficulty.

Statesman Confirms Report.

Washington, July 14.—A cablegram from Minister Stutesman has confirmed the reports of the rioting in LaPaz, Bolivia. It stated that the Peruvian legation and a number of Peruvian business houses were attacked, but not seriously damaged. Very little damage was done. The situation has become tranquil.

Missouri Floods Subsidizing.

Kansas City, Mo., July 14.—That the floods in western Missouri and eastern Kansas have passed their worst stages is the assurance given by reports from all the affected points. Both the Kansas and Missouri rivers have begun falling at Kansas City. Railway schedules are almost back to normal.

Suicide of a Rothschild.

Vienna, July 14.—Baron Oskar Rothschild, the youngest son of Albert Rothschild, head of the Austrian branch of the Rothschild house, committed suicide because of an unfortunate love affair. Baron Oskar was twenty-one years old.

MURDER SUSPECTED

Body of Lake Shore Detective Found Alongside the Track.

Laporte, Ind., July 14.—Along the line from Elkhart to Chicago the police forces of the Lake Shore road and the police departments of the several cities have been ordered to take into custody all suspicious characters and hold them until full investigation is made of the mysterious death of Charles F. Silversides, a Lake Shore detective, whose mangled body was found lying beside the track out of Otis.

It is the opinion of Coroner Osborn that Silversides was murdered, though he admits the possibility that he accidentally fell from the train.

Silversides, who was twenty-six years old, was detailed to guard several cars loaded with copper on an eastbound Lake Shore freight train.

PETULANT AND PRETTY AS EVER

Evelyn Thaw Again On Stand In Husband's Behalf.

White Plains, N. Y., July 14.—Petulant and school girlish, as pretty as ever, and dressed in the familiar blue which she affected so much during the trial of her husband, Harry K. Thaw, for the murder of Stanford White, Evelyn Nesbit Thaw was on the stand for more than an hour in the supreme court here, subpoenaed by the state in its fight to keep Thaw in the asylum for the criminal insane at Matteawan. But for the absence of the dainty Eton collar which Mrs. Thaw wore so much during both of the murder trials, she appeared much the same as she did when Jerome was trying to send Harry Thaw to the electric chair, and at times she was petulant to the extent of tears.

Although called to assist in proving Harry Thaw irrational, what Roger Clark, the deputy attorney general, drew from her lips created rather a favorable impression for her husband. She was excused from the stand, but will probably appear again. Upon the ultimate outcome of Evelyn Thaw's testimony the state's fight largely rests.

The Sigel and the Woodill cases were not pulled off in time to leave a clear field for the Snell case. Ella Gingles is now disputing the spotlight.

It now seems very probable that Harry Thaw will finally succeed in getting rid of his dementia Americana. He wiggled out of the brain-storm attack, but the other bothers him.

Three thousand marriages in Chicago are now threatened with annulment because of a defective or illegal ceremony. The action of the divorce courts in Chicago has always been rapid, but, it seems possible to find yet faster ways for getting out of bad scrapes.

One of the redeeming features in the tariff bill which passed the Senate is the section which provides for the selection of a board of tariff experts, to report occasionally to Congress, and to advise Congress and the president in matters pertaining to the administration of the tariff act. Several years have passed since the National Association of Manufacturers began urging the selection of a permanent, nonpartisan board of broad minded business men to make inquiries into wages and prices of materials at home and abroad, and make reports to Congress from time to time on which that body could base such changes in the schedules as would be necessary. The leading Republican newspapers of the country gave the idea their support from the beginning. The necessity for such a board of capable, unbiased men to make such an investigation was so apparent that it won the favor of many persons in Congress immediately. The provision in the Senate bill stops far short of what the country would like. It does not, in a mandatory way, provide for a permanent tariff commission, to give its entire time to the study of the labor and general industrial situation in the United States and the rest of the world. It is a beginning, however, and there is hope that in the regular session next winter a further step may be taken toward creating the body which the business men of the country ask. Never was the necessity for such a commission made so obvious as it was during the framing and the consideration of the Payne bill. Had there been such a body at work for two or three years before the meeting of the extra session, the work of Messrs. Payne and Aldrich could have been performed in three or four weeks instead of four months, and the finished product would have been far more satisfactory to the American people than this is likely to be.

The Columbus Republican has the following editorial regarding the stamping out of an obnoxious weed, the campaign being started by this paper: "The Rushville Republican is sounding the warning against 'buckhorn,' or 'buckthorn,' as some call it, which it says is the latest weed growing there. Whether weed or not, the 'buckhorn' is one of the greatest vegetable nuisances that grows. It resembles plantain to a slight extent and no known animal will as much as sniff at it, let alone eat it. It spreads rapidly and requires heroic efforts to eradicate it when once it gets a start. Throughout this city, especially in the northern part, along the sidewalk lawns, 'buckhorn' is much in evidence, and its spread can be noticed from year to year, almost month to month."

Why Women Do Not Marry

Gertrude Atherton Says the "Sharpened Intellects of Modern Girls Encourage Independence

Leaving entirely out of the question the substantial improvements demanded by the suffragists, and those ill-balanced children of their old age called suffragettes, there are certain more intimate disadvantages pertaining to the immemorial status of woman, which, unconsciously or otherwise, influence the thousands of girls that deliberately enter upon the independent life before man shall have a chance to marry, desert, neglect or bore them. It is possible that the woman never lived who was born without the instinct for romantic love, and its less romantic sequels, marriage and maternity, says Gertrude Atherton in the Delineator for August. Being the only hope of the race until science learns to manufacture estimable Frankensteins, every sort of woman, when young, is as prone to the disease of love as to the microbous afflictions of childhood; but the sharpened intellects of the modern female teach her to observe not only that indulgence in the primitive blessings is often productive of a tame happiness at best, but that it is mere chance if she does not waste several years of her active youth waiting for some man to exert his inalienable right to woo and propose.

A man may trample down barriers, make opportunities, persist, overwhelm, but a woman, with double the fascination and intelligence must either stoop to contemptible scheming or proudly bide her time, as likely as not to miss her one chance of happiness because circumstances do not give her the opportunity to reveal herself to the kindred spirit.

If she can not pursue a man as a man pursues a woman when he wants her; if she has not the supreme attractions which bring a man to a woman's feet with a flash of the eye, she can at least avoid the mean subtleties of the husband hunters, and lead a life in which man as a love factor is practically eliminated. She can also enjoy much the same privileges as men, until, perhaps—who knows?—one day she may meet in this larger, fuller life a congenial, many-sided creature who wants something more than a reproduction of his grandmother.

Smart Tips For Men

Plain colors prevail in shirts. The negligee and plaited cuff-attached coat style is being shown extensively.

The initial fob attachment, with a chain for the watch, is a novelty that is proving popular in bits.

Straight brims are being worn mostly in the split straw hats. The Alpine shape in Milans is favored.

The Daily Republican would appreciate it if Rush county farmers would call up on the phone and inform us of the yield of their wheat when threshed.

For Woman's Eye.

Don't think to cover any imperfections of waistline by wearing the princess skirt whose upper edge rises at the back well towards the shoulder blades. The effect, unless one has an ideal figure, is that of deformity.

Wraps or capes as well as coats are worn by my lady when motoring. The cape with military collar that protects the dress perfectly is one of the well-liked models.

Daggers of tortoise shell, studded with diamonds, are among the most popular hair ornaments.

What Our Neighbors Are Talking About

APPLE TREE IN BLOOM.

(New Castle Courier.)
A freak of nature is being noted in the Clear Springs neighborhood, in that several apple trees that already have a half-grown crop of fruit on them, are again in bloom. It is not merely one tree, but several of them. Fruit growers and experts are at a loss to account for the unusual condition.

BIG QUESTION INVOLVED.

(New Castle Times.)
The principal manufacturing industry in Greensburg of recent years has been the growing of trees on the court house tower, and it must be confessed the enterprising citizens of that town have achieved a large measure of success as well as fame in that peculiar method of cultivating a forest. Realizing that they must do something to offset this go-ahead and get to the top spirit of the part of their rival county seat, the retired farmers who comprise the chief manufacturing push in Rushville, have turned their attention to the growing of a new variety of weed and so great has been their success that the streets of the town present the appearance of a forest of weeds of every hue and of mammoth proportions. This has aroused the envy of the Greensburg editors, who claim that Rushville is trying to force their town to the rear in civic pride and industrial enterprise.

FIRST ORGAN USED.

(Richmond Item.)
One of the most radical departures from the church's customs was accomplished at the Main Street Friends church Sunday morning when the music for the services was enhanced by the introduction of instrumental accompaniment from a piano. The departure was urged by the younger members of the church. The matter was brought up at a regular meeting of the church council and a spirited debate of two hours was required before the matter, a victory for instrumental music, was settled.

Owing to his becoming a member of the new West Richmond Friends meeting, Allen Jay will sever his connection as pastor of the Main Street Friends church after the Indiana Yearly Meeting of Friends. He will be succeeded by the Rev. Truman Kenworthy, who is now pastor of the Friends church in Spiceland.

HAS A RAT RANCH.

(Columbus Republican.)

Charles S. Crump has started a rat ranch at his country home north-east of Columbus, and when he gets a number of rats so large that it is inconvenient to house them at the airdome theater he consigns them to his ranch. At 7 o'clock Monday morning five small boys called at the airdome and each of them carried a large trap filled with rats. Next Saturday afternoon Mr. Crump will pull off a rat killing contest at the airdome.

GREENSBURG SONGSTERS.

(Greensburg News.)

The song "You," published by County Recorder Marsh Thomas and William Kirkpatrick, of Greensburg, has made a hit in many cities where it is now being sold in numbers that is daily proving its popularity. Mr. Thomas received a letter from W. F. Warneford, manager of a nickelo at Lawrenceburg, enclosing a dodger, which advertises the song, with slides, at his place for several days. The bill says, "'You' is one of the most beautiful love ballads ever written." "You" is the combined product of Mr. Thomas and Mr. Kirk-patrik, the latter writing the words and the former setting them to music.

WAIT TO HEAR RETURNS.

There is nothing like returns from the threshing machine, to prove that farmer prophets are usually found to be mistaken when measured by the farmers' profits. Just prior to wheat cutting time the doleful sound is heard, but it resolves itself into thin air when the measuring and weighing device performs its functions at threshing time. The corn crop is likewise invariably a failure—until cribbed.

AMUSEMENTS

An intensely dramatic film is "The Violin Maker of Cremona," which will be run at the Star-Grand theater tonight. The subject is made by the Biograph company, who produce the best films and shows the powerful influence of true unselfish love. The picture is said to be very touching, but not thrilling. Miss Mary Cole will sing "Sweet Rosie May."

The Palace theater offers an exceptionally good program tonight, "Oliver Twist," a dramatization of Charles Dickens' famous novel of the same name will be presented. The management is fortunate in securing this picture as it belongs in the class of high art pictures. The picture depicts life in London during ancient times and shows a story full of dramatic and pathetic incidents.

An excellent comic bill has been secured to be shown at the Vaudet tonight. It includes the two pictures, "An Uninvited Guest" and "Advantages of Aviation." Both are guaranteed to be among the best ever run and to produce a long hearty laugh. Mrs. Blanche Wolverton will sing "Pansies Mean Thoughts and Thoughts Mean You."

Mrs. Warring was thirty-nine years of age and is survived by her husband and five children, ranging between the ages of three and thirteen years.

SKIRT YOKES ARE POPULAR

The yoke skirt that was looked on a bit doubtfully when it first made its appearance a few months ago has met with most unparalleled success both here and abroad. French women particularly have caught it up with the greatest enthusiasm, and from all accounts of the French and English races one saw little else among smartly gowned women. A lovely dress in a very fine silk-finished baptiste has the tucked and lace-trimmed skirt mounted on a deep yoke that reaches down well below the hips. The tucks—or rather plaits—start at the lower edge of the yoke, and are stitched down for six or eight inches. The stitching is placed fairly near the edge of the plaits so that it gives them a pretty tuck-like effect.—The Delineator for August.

CHINESE MAID LIKES AMERICA

Miss Harriet Vredenburg Receives a Letter From a Student of Miss Muir in China.

FOREIGNERS' CHARACTERISTIC

Thank God They Have an American Teacher in their School.

Miss Harriet Vredenburg is in receipt of a letter from Ai Djen Liu, a Chinese girl, who is a student in Baldwin Memorial school and is being taught by Miss Winifred Muir, who recently left her home here to take up missionary work in China.

The letter was dated NanChang, China, Kiang Si, May 17, 1909. It is characteristic of the average foreigner, who is beginning to speak the English language, the sentences all being short, terse and to the point. The letter is as follows:

Now I am beginning to write the English letter to you. I am very glad to know you, and with you to make friends. But I do not know you, when Miss Muir did not come to Nan Chang to our school.

I thank God to give us a wish teacher from America to China. I hope you will come to our school too. If you can that is my wish also.

And Miss Muir told me you are 17 years old. I am very glad indeed, because now I am 15 years old. I am 7 years old to come to Baldwin Memorial. Now I was 8 years old when I come first to the school. Now Miss Muir was come to Nan Chang we all very glad to get her.

Our school has 50 pupils. When Miss Muir come with us play we all speak the Chinese to her, but she did not understand. Then she said, if you girls speak English to me, I will with you girls play, and "if you girls did not I never play with you girls." Then I am very sorry, because she never with us to play.

From that time I ever learn to speak English to her. Then she was very happy.

We heard Miss Honsinger said, Miss Muir can draw many things was very pretty. Then Miss Muir come to send the flower to our school. But I come and said, Miss Muir will you please teach us draw the pretty things. Then Miss Muir said "If you girls speak English to me I will." Then she said the next year I will. Then she was to go to dinner. Sometime at the 6 o'clock Miss Muir come to with us play the basket ball, when she caught the ball some time she was falling on the grass. We also too.

Now Miss Muir was to learn the Chinese. It was very good indeed. She can speak many of Chinese. But she ever very kind to me. There was a Chinese letter. It was translate to English. Our Chinese letter is not like the English. We write with the month and the day at the letter's end. When our letter is end we will write our name, and the day below our name.

My letter was also wrong. Will you please don't laugh at me, because I am beginning to learn the English of it.

Will you please write to me?
Yours with love,
AI DJEN LIU.

The Man From Brodney's

CHAPTER VIII. THE MAN FROM BRODNEY'S.

IT was quite forty-eight hours before the Deppingsham surrenders to the Brownes. They were obliged to humbly admit in the seclusion of their own councils that it was to the obnoxious but energetic Britt that they owed their present and ever growing comfort.

Late in the afternoon of the day following the advent of the Brownes, Lord and Lady Deppingsham were laboriously fanning themselves in the midst of their stifling Marie Antoinette elegance.

"By Jove, Aggy, it's too beastly hot here for words," growled he for the hundredth time. "I think we'd better move into your grandfather's rooms."

"Now, Deppy, don't let the Brownes talk you into everything they suggest," she complained, determined to be stubborn to the end. "They know entirely too much."

"That's all very good, my dear, but you know quite as well as I that we made a frightful mistake in choosing these rooms. It is cooler on that side of the house. I'm not too proud to be comfortable, don't you know?"

The next day they moved into the west wing, and that evening they had the Brownes to dine with them in the banquet hall. Deppingsham awoke in the middle of the night with violent cramps in his stomach.

"Don't say a word to Lady Deppingsham," he grunted, sitting up in bed and gazing wildly at his valet, "but I've been poisoned. The — servants—ouch!—don't you know! Might have known. Silly ass! See what I mean? Get something for me—quick!"

For two hours Antoine applied hot water bags and soothing sirups, and his master, far from dying as he continually prophesied, dropped off into a peaceful sleep.

The next morning Deppingsham, fully convinced that the native servants had tried to poison him, unconditionally discharged the entire force.

Of course there was a great upheaval. Lady Agnes came tearing down to the servants' hall, followed directly by the Brownes and Mr. Britt.

"Stop!" she cried. "Deppy, what are you doing? Discharging them after we've had such a time getting them? Are you crazy?"

"They're a pack of snakes—I mean snakes. They're assassins. They tried to poison every one of us last!"

Britt smoothed the troubled waters with astonishing ease. The servants returned to their duties, but not without grumbling and no end of savage glances, all of which were leveled at the luckless Deppingsham.

"Why poison?" demanded Britt. "They've got knives and guns, haven't they?"

"My dear man, that would put them to no end of trouble cleaning up after us," said Deppingsham loftily.

Meanwhile it may be well to depict the situation from the enemy's point of view—the enemy being the islanders as a unit. They were prepared to abide by the terms of the will so long as it remained clear to them that fair treatment came from the opposing interests.

Rasula, the Ararat lawyer, in mass meeting had discussed the document. They understood its requirements and its restrictions; they knew by this time that there was small chance of the original beneficiaries coming into the property under the provisions. Later came the news that marriage between the heirs was out of the question. Then the islanders laughed as they toiled. But they were not to be caught napping. Jacob von Blitz, the superintendent, stolid German that he was, saw far into the future.

It was he who set the native lawyer unceremoniously aside and urged competent representation in London. The great law firm headed by Sir John Brodney was chosen. A wide awake representative of the distinguished solicitors was now on his way to the island with the swarthy committee which had created so much interest in the metropolis during its brief stay.

Jacob von Blitz came to the island when he was twenty years old. That was twenty years before the death of Taswell Skaggs. He had worked in the South African diamond fields and had no difficulty in securing employment with Skaggs and Wyckholme.

Von Blitz was shrewd enough to see that the grandchildren were not coming to the island for the mere pleasure of sojourning there; their motive was plain. It was he who advised—even commanded—the horde of servants to desert the chateau.

He lived, with his three wives, in the hills just above and south of the town itself. The Englishmen who worked in the bank and the three Boer foremen also had houses up there, where it was cooler, but Von Blitz was the only one who practiced polygamy. His wives were Persian women and handsome after the Persian fashion.

One hot, dry afternoon about a week after the reopening of the chateau, the siesta of a swarthy population was disturbed by the shouts of those who kept impatient watch of the sea. Five minutes later the whole town of Ararat knew that the smoke of a steamer lay low on the horizon. No one doubted that it came from the stack of the boat that was bringing Rasula and the English solicitor. Joy turned to exultation when the word came down from Von Blitz that it was the long looked for steamship, the Sir Joshua.

Von Blitz stood at the landing place to welcome Rasula and his comrades and to be the first to clasp the hand of the man from Brodney's.

At last his figure could be made out on the forward deck. His straw hat was at least a head higher than the turban of Rasula, who was indicating to him the interesting spots in the hills.

"He's big," commented Von Blitz comfortably, more to himself than to his neighbor. "And young," he added a few minutes later. Bowles, standing at his side, offered the single comment:

"Good looking."

As the tall stranger stepped from the boat to the pier Von Blitz turned a look of triumph upon Britt, who had elbowed through the crowd a moment before and was standing close by.

The newcomer was an American!

"I've sighted the enemy," exclaimed Bobby Browne, coming up from Neptune's pool—the largest of the fountains. His wife and Lady Deppingsham were sitting in the cool retreat under the hanging garden. "Would you care to have a peek at him?"

"I should think so," said his wife, jumping to her feet. "He's been on the island three days, and we haven't had a glimpse of him. Come along, Lady Deppingsham."

Lady Deppingsham arose reluctantly, stifling a yawn.

They had come to call the new American lawyer "the enemy." No one knew his name or cared to know it, for that matter. Bowles in answer to the telephone inquiries of Saunders said that the new solicitor had taken temporary quarters above the bank and was in hourly consultation with Von Blitz, Rasula and others. Much of his time was spent at the mines. Later on, it was commonly reported, he was to take up his residence in Wyckholme's deserted bungalow far up on the mountain side in plain view from the chateau.

Life at the chateau had not been allowed to drag. The white servants had become good friends despite the natural disdain that the trained English expert feels for the unpolished American domestic.

Miss Pelham, the stenographer from West Twenty-third street, had set her cap for the unsuspecting Mr. Saunders. She had learned in the wisdom of her sex that he was fancy free. Mr. Saunders, fully warned against the American typewriter girl as a class, having read the most shocking jokes at her expense in the comic papers, was rather shy at the outset, but Britt gallantly came to Miss Pelham's defense and ultimate rescue by emphatically assuring Saunders that she was a perfect lady, guaranteed to cause uneasiness to no man's wife.

"But I have no wife," quickly protested Saunders, turning a dull red.

"The devil!" exclaimed Britt, apparently much upset by the revelation.

But of this more anon.

Browne conducted the two young women across the drawbridge and to the sunlit edge of the terrace, where two servants awaited them with parasols.

"There he is! See him?" almost whispered Browne, as if the solitary, motionless figure at the foot of the avenue was likely to hear his voice and be frightened away.

The enemy was sitting serenely on one of the broad iron benches just inside the gates to the park, his arms stretched out along the back, his legs extended and crossed. It was quite apparent that he was lazily surveying the chateau, puffing with consistent ease at the cigarette which drooped from his lips.

"Mr. Britt was right," said Mrs. Browne irrelevantly. She was peering at the stranger through the binoculars. "He is very good looking."

"And you from Boston, too?" scoffed Lady Deppingsham. Mrs. Browne flushed and smiled deprecatingly.

"Wonder what he's doing here in the grounds?" puzzled Browne.

"It's plain to me that he is resting his audacious bones," said her lady-

READ MRS. HERRICK'S SWORN STATEMENT

Nancy A. Herrick, being duly sworn, deposes and says: When I was a school girl I had a head of heavy, long, dark brown hair, that was so plentiful, rich and glossy, that it was the envy of many of my young schoolmates, and attracted the attention and remarks of strangers. After I was married and as I grew older, my hair commenced to come out just a little at first, but gradually as time passed it came out more and more, and began to turn gray. I was induced by many good reports heard of Sage and Sulphur, to try a bottle. My hair was quite gray and thin on top when I commenced using Sage and Sulphur, and you may imagine my satisfaction when I found that it was fast coming back to its natural condition, becoming thicker, darker, smoother and glossier than it had been for a long time. I continued the use of Sage and Sulphur and my hair is now in a splendid condition, as heavy and as dark and smooth as when I was a girl of sixteen. From my experience I believe it is one's own fault if they lose their hair, or let it get gray or harsh. It is now four years since I commenced using Sage and Sulphur, and still use it, and my hair still keeps thick, dark, smooth and glossy.

ship, glancing brightly at her colleague.

Three men were approaching by the path which led down from the far-away stables. Browne recognized the dark skinned men as servants in the chateau—the major domo, the chef and the master of the stables.

"Lord Deppingsham must have sent them down to pitch him over the wall," he said, with an excited grin.

"Impossible! My husband is hunting for sapphires in the ravine back of—" She did not complete the sentence.

The enemy was greeting the statuesque natives with a friendliness that upset all calculations. It was evident that the meeting was prearranged. There was no attempt at secrecy. The conference, whatever its portent, had the merit of being quite aboveboard.

In the end the tall solicitor, lifting his helmet with a gesture so significant that it left no room for speculation, turned and sauntered through the broad gateway and out into the forest road. The three servants returned as they had come, by way of the bridle path along the wall.

"The nerve of him!" exclaimed Browne. "That graceful attention was meant for us. I'll have Britt interview those fellows at once. Our kitchen, our stable and our domestic discipline are threatened."

They hastened to the chateau and regaled the resourceful Britt with the disquieting news.

"Ladies and gentlemen," said Mr. Britt, calmly dropping into a chair near by, "this place is full of spies."

"Spies!" cried four voices in unison. Mr. Saunders nodded a plaintive apology.

"Yes, sir, every native servant here is a spy. That's what the enemy was here for today. I've analyzed the situation and I'm right. Ain't I, Mr. Saunders? Of course I am. He came here to tell 'em what to do and how to report our affairs to him. See? Moreover, he's getting the evidence of everybody to prove that Skaggs and Wyckholme were men of sound mind up to the hour of their death. He has the depositions of agents and dealers in Bombay, Aden, Suez and three or four European cities, all along that line. He goes over the day's business at the bank as often as we do as agents for the executors. He knows just how many rubies and sapphires were washed out yesterday and how much they weigh. It's our business, as your agents, to scrape up everything as far back as we can go to prove that the old chaps were mentally off their base when they drew up that agreement and will. Of course if we can prove that insanity has always run through the two families it"—

"That evening he dragged the reluctant Saunders into the privacy of the hanging garden and deliberately interrupted the game of bridge which was going on.

"Ladies and gentlemen," said Mr. Britt, calmly dropping into a chair near by, "this place is full of spies."

"Spies!" cried four voices in unison. Mr. Saunders nodded a plaintive apology.

"Yes, sir, every native servant here is a spy. That's what the enemy was here for today. I've analyzed the situation and I'm right. Ain't I, Mr. Saunders? Of course I am. He came here to tell 'em what to do and how to report our affairs to him. See? Moreover, he's getting the evidence of everybody to prove that Skaggs and Wyckholme were men of sound mind up to the hour of their death. He has the depositions of agents and dealers in Bombay, Aden, Suez and three or four European cities, all along that line. He goes over the day's business at the bank as often as we do as agents for the executors. He knows just how many rubies and sapphires were washed out yesterday and how much they weigh. It's our business, as your agents, to scrape up everything as far back as we can go to prove that the old chaps were mentally off their base when they drew up that agreement and will. Of course if we can prove that insanity has always run through the two families it"—

"Good Lord!" gasped Browne nervously.

"It would be a great help. If we can show that you and Mrs.—er—Lady Deppingsham have queer spells occasionally, it"—

"Not for all the islands in the world," cried Lady Deppingsham. "The idea! Queer spells! Please be good enough to leave me out of the insanity dodge, as you Americans call it."

"Is it necessary to make my husband insane in order to establish the fact that his grandfather was not of sound mind?" queried pretty Mrs. Browne, with her calmest Boston inflection.

"It depends on your husband," said Britt coolly. "If he sticks at anything which may help us to break that will he's certainly insane. That's all I've got to say about it."

"Well, I'm hanged if I'll pose as an insane man," roared Browne.

"Mr. Saunders hasn't asked me to be insane, have you, Mr. Saunders?" asked Lady Agnes in her sweetest scorn.

"I don't apprehend"—began Saunders nervously.

"Saunders," said Britt calculatingly and evenly, "next thing we'll have to begin hunting for insanity in your family. We haven't heard anything from you on this little point, Lord Deppingsham."

"I don't know anything about Mr. Saunders' family," said Deppingsham stiffly. Britt looked at him for a moment, puzzled and uncertain. Then he gave a short, hopeless laugh and said under his breath:

"Holy smoke!"

When he finally called the conference adjourned and prepared to depart he calmly turned to the stenographer.

"Did you get all this down, Miss Pelham?"

"Yes, Mr. Britt."

"Good!" Then he went away, leaving the quartet unconsciously depressed by the emphasis he placed upon that single word.

The next day but one it was announced that the enemy had moved into the bungalow. From time to time his gray, blue or white clad figure could be seen directing the operations of the natives who were engaged in rehabilitating Wyckholme's "nest."

The chateau was now under the very eye of the enemy.

THE CONFEREES SHOW PROGRESS

About 400 Amendments Have Been Disposed Of.

SPECIAL INTERESTS ACTIVE

Corridors About the Conference Room Where Tariff Schedules Are Being Adjusted Are as Thickly Peopled With Lobbyists as They Were When the Bill Was in the Original Committee—By Passing Over Mooted Schedules, the Conferees Have Been Able to Dispose of Amendments in Rapid Order.

Washington, July 14.—By skipping the disputed points connected with the rates on lumber in the wood schedule and passing over the cotton and woolen schedules without taking up any of the amended paragraphs, the tariff conferees have been able to dispose of about 400 amendments. This number, however, includes subjects that were settled tentatively on Monday and Saturday.

Many important subjects, such as the house drawback feature of the alcohol paragraph, the rates on oil cloth and the various items under the head of lithographs were submitted to sub-conferees. The treasury experts who helped the senate finance committee in its consideration of the bill are assisting the conferees in gathering information about these subjects.

So many matters have been put over for future sessions, however, that it is difficult to tell just how much progress has been made. The conferees are making every effort to prevent the advance publication of decisions reached by the conferees regardless of how unimportant are the questions determined.

The corridors about the conference room in the senate office building are about as thickly peopled with representatives of special interests and lobbyists generally as they were when the bill was in house and senate committees. The moment a member of the conference emerges from a session he is surrounded and briefed relating to various schedules are thrust at him. Some of the conferees have adopted the plan of refusing to accept these arguments, basing their declination upon the ground that the bill has been considered in both branches of congress and that it is now the duty of the conference committee to harmonize the differences without outside influence of any kind.

Few of the conferees predict that a report can be made before a week from Saturday, and some go so far as to forecast Aug. 1 or later for the adjournment of the extra session.

SUFFERED A RELAPSE

St. Paul, July 14.—The serious illness of Governor Johnson is noted. He has already undergone three operations for appendicitis and intestinal troubles, and now suffers a recurrence of the old troubles. An operation may again be necessary. The governor was on a lecture tour and the irregular hours and unusual diet upset his stomach, and there still seems to be congestion near the appendix.

Another Toy Pistol Victim.

Peru, Ind., July 14.—Paul, the thirteen-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Webster of this city, is dead from tetanus. On July 4 the boy wrestled with his brother, who tried to take a toy pistol from him, and in the scuffle the pistol was discharged, inflicting a wound in Paul's hand. Blood poison set in.

Lord Roberts' Bill Rejected.

London, July 14.—The house of lords, by a vote of 123 to 103, decided not to proceed with the national service bill, which Lord Roberts introduced. This bill provides for compulsory service in the territorial army of all male citizens between the ages of eighteen and thirty.

SUSPICIONS OF A SHOCKING MURDER

Boy Robbed and Thrown From Train Near Elkhart.

Columbus, O., July 14.—Harry Brockhofen was found this morning at the home of his grandmother, Mrs. Anna Thomas. He denied the slaying of Cuthbert. He declared he left the boy four weeks ago at Elkhart, Ind., with a car inspector, who gave them employment. Brockhofen denied writing the letter saying he had pushed Cuthbert off the train.

Chicago, July 14.—Cecil Cuthbert, fourteen years old, who disappeared from his home here May 25 after he had withdrawn $15 from a savings bank, is thought to have been robbed and thrown from a freight train near Elkhart, Ind. Cuthbert left this city with Harry Brockhofen. Yesterday the police were notified that Brockhofen had written a boy friend here a letter in which he said:

"I shoved Cecil off the train all O. K. and got the cash. Am with my aunt now, but will go further from Chicago."

Detectives of the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern railroad reported that the body of an unidentified boy, bearing marks indicating that he had been murdered, had been found near Elkhart several days ago. The Cuthbert boy's mother has left for Elkhart and the police of Columbus, O., where the Brockhofen boy is supposed to be, were asked to arrest him.

FRIGHTENED TO DEATH

But What Was the Cause of Fright Is Not Explained.

Sturgis, Mich., July 14.—It is the theory now that fright was the cause of the death of Miss Mamie Davey of Chicago, whose dead body was found floating face downward near a rowboat in Klinger lake. As to Claude Hunt, the young farmer who took Miss Davey for a row in the small boat, no trace has been found. The lake has been thoroughly dragged for the young man's body, but without success. Search along the shore failed to disclose any marks to indicate that he had made his way to land. Examination of the young woman's body disclosed no water in the lungs.

The boat was right side up when discovered and contained no evidence of a struggle. Hunt rented a boat and a few hours later it was found anchored with Miss Davey's body floating near by.

Quietly Preparing For War.

LaPaz, Bolivia, July 14.—Conditions are quieter at LaPaz, the anger of the people being somewhat appeased by the government's refusal to accept Argentina's decision. Bolivia's reason for non-acceptance is that part of the territory, which Peru never occupied, is recognized by the award as belonging to Peru. The populace, fearing a war and scarcity of provisions, are buying heavily. Many Peruvians are leaving the country, the Peruvian government paying their expenses.

Elks Elect Officers.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 14.—The grand lodge of Elks elected the following officers: Exalted ruler, James U. Sammis, Lemars, Ia.; leading knight, Warren G. Sayres, Wabash, Ind.; lecturing knight, J. D. Jones, Scranton, Pa.; secretary, Fred C. Robinson, DuBuque, Ia.; treasurer, Edwin R. Leach, New York; trustee, Perry A. Clay, Denver; tyler, Charles L. Dicker, Bemidji, Minn.; inner guard, A. M. Taylor, St. Augustine, Fla.

Fez in Hands of Tribesmen.

Madrid, July 14.—A dispatch from Tetuan says that Roghi, leader of the rebellious tribesmen, made an attack on Fez and succeeded in forcing an entry into the city. His followers pillaged the stores and many of the merchants fled to Mequinez. The fate of Mulai Hafid is unknown.

MARKETS LOADED WITH VEGETABLES

Home-Grown Products are Making Their Appearances and Prices Ranging Lower.

MOST ANYTHING YOU WANT

The season of the year has arrived when much home-grown garden truck is being sold on the local markets. Lettuce, beans, peas, cabbage, cucumbers and pieplant, with blackberries and dewberries, are being brought to town by the farmers and a number of residents of this city raise their own garden truck.

The first of the peach crop from Georgia is being received by local grocers and the usual high prices prevail. Watermelons from the South are being shipped in, although they don't compare in flavor to the Indiana melons, which will be ready for the market in a short time. Strawberries which at the best were below the usual standard this year, have ceased coming in. The strawberry crop was a failure this year on account of the long dry spell last summer.

As a general thing there have been reductions in price of vegetables in the local markets during the past week. The reason is that the supplies are picking up and it is no longer a task for the grocer to get hold of all the seasonable vegetables that he must have for his trade.

Keeping Boys and Girls on the Farm

The American corn belt devotes sixty-five million acres to the crop and raises one and three-quarter billion bushels, adding a billion dollars to the wealth of the nation every year. It comprises the twelve states of Illinois, Iowa, Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, Oklahoma, South Dakota, Michigan, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Ohio, and Indiana, and in addition to producing three-fourth of America's chiefest crop leads the world in the output of dairy products and the yield of oats, barley, timothy and potatoes. But the greatest crop, which it has at last devoted itself to raising, is that of farm boys and farm girls.

Great and wealthy as the corn belt is, it has at last awakened to the fact that it cannot much longer lead the world in raising corn and oats and barley "and other things" if it does not at least try to lead in rearing boys and girls who will stay on the farm. By means of the new science of agronomy it has within recent years learned how to increase its cereal and dairy yield. Unlike Mark Twain, who claims to be the only farmer in Connecticut who can "make two blades of grass where three grew before," there are a hundred thousand farmers in the corn belt who have learned literally how to make two blades of grass and two ears of corn where but one grew before. But of what value is this knowledge if sons and daughters are to quit the farm, leaving corn-belt prosperity to the haphazard agriculture of the city-born and of transplanted foreigners who find conditions and climate vastly different from those of the Fatherland? Therefore the corn belt has at last set itself to raising that greater and more valuable crop of farm boys and farm girls who find material comforts and ample financial recompense on the farm. From "Catching Them Young" in the August Technical World Magazine.

Place in the melon halves and serve with a maraschino cherry on each.—The Delineator for August.

NATIONAL FORESTS GUARD.

Fires to Be Watched From Lookout Stations on Mountain Peaks.

Working along the line of securing the greatest results in protection against fire with a minimum of expenditure, the forest service has decided to establish on the most advantageous points of the national forests in the west a series of lookout stations from which news of the breaking out of forest fires can be telephoned to forest officials.

Since all of these stations will command a view of the country for miles around, the work of detecting and extinguishing fires in their incipency will by this plan be greatly expedited, with the result that many thousands of dollars' worth of valuable timber will be saved annually.

In most of the national forest states the climate is very dry and the rainfall light. Conditions, therefore, are remarkably favorable for the spread of fire, and extraordinary diligence is necessary in patrolling dangerous areas. To administer the vast area included in the national forests, approximately 195,000,000 acres, the government has about 1,400 men in the field. If each man could be used for fire patrol he would have to cover approximately 138,000 acres. As a matter of fact, however, the volume of business on the national forests has grown to such proportions that less than 25 per cent of the force is available. This makes it necessary to spread an average man's service over nearly four times 138,000 acres, decreasing fire protection far below the point of safety in many cases.

In the face of this, however, fire losses on the national forests are kept at a point where they are trivial when compared with the damage which would be caused were the lands contained in the national forests unprotected.

When Dad Comes Home in the Future

What is all that scratching, mother, Up around the scuttle trap? Someone's fooling with the padlock, Sounds just like some burglar chap, Someone's walking on the shingles, And now listen, someone fell; Oh-oh! I'm awful frightened, mother, Don't you think you'd better yell?

Hush, my child! It isn't burglars, Walking on the roof you hear; I have often heard the same sounds, That is but your father, dear In his aeroplane returning, From a session at the club, And he thinks that I won't hear him; Child, your Pop's an awful dub.

Thanks, I feel much better, mother, Now I know; but tell me, pray, When you catch him and you face him.

What will my poor papa say? What excuses will he give you? How will he dismiss your frown? For, if I remember rightly, Business kept him late down town.

Well, my child, I am expecting That he'll blame it on the 'plane, Wings were faulty, or the motor Stopped up in the air again; But it's just the same old story And there'll be an awful row— Listen 'till you hear me whale him. Here's your papa coming now.
